

Editorial

Polymer-based materials are getting more and more important in industry. When we have to design new material system, we utilize polymer as binder, protector, interlayer, coupling agent, impact modifiers and many other ways. Whenever a new product shows up, polymers play vital roles there. We need to deepen and diversify the polymer studies. In this issue of Journal of Composites and Biodegradable Polymers, we proudly present original studies on natural polymers and recycled polymers.

Sun Kyong Kim, Professor, PhD
(Editor-in-Chief)